

BULLING THE OIL MARKET.

The Expectations of the Bulls not Realized—A Great Week for Lamb Shearing.

OIL CITY, Sept. 22.—The oil market this week did not realize the expectations of the anxious bulls. The situation in the Cherry Grove district certainly warrants a still further advance, but the stringency of money made carrying rates so high that buyers were frightened out of the market. As much as $1.50 was paid for 1,000 barrels a day for carrying oil. Why there should be this tightness in the oil regions money is plenty at a low rate of interest. Some give as a reason that the volume of business in the speculative market has become so much greater than our bankers anticipated that they did not prepare for it, and consequently did not have funds sufficient to take care of the increased trade. Others say that the banks were squeezing the trade to get a big rate of interest.

It has been a great week for lamb shearing. As the market began to bound upward scores of strangers poured in, it could be readily observed that the men who had come were not the old owners who had so often been ruthlessly shorn of their cash, but a nice new lot of fat lambs coming in from all over the country. The average weight in the fifties people won't buy, but just as soon as there is a bull movement started they rush in droves to buy top fat, get left.

A good deal of new business this week in Cherry Grove, but not one of the batch has made the least pretension toward a comparison with the strike of a few months ago. The latest news is that the Mahogany No. 3, which produced 300 barrels in twenty-four hours against 1,200 by the Mahogany No. 1, started a wildcat venture on lot 5,548 in Elk township, with the expectation of opening up a new streak in that direction. It was drilled to a depth of 900 feet and no gas was found. Neither oil nor gas was found.
